Alpacas

FREE

Map Ref C2 – Alpaca / Sheep Pavilion

(Friday & Saturday only with a small display in the Animal Nursery on Wednesday /Thursday)

Alpacas are social herd animals and should always be kept with others of their kind, or at the very least with other herd animals. They are gentle, elegant, inquisitive, intelligent and observant. As they are a prey animal, they are cautious and nervous if they feel threatened. They like having their own space and do not like an unfamiliar alpaca or humans getting close, especially from behind. They warn the intruder away by making sharp, noisy inhalations, putting back their ears, twisting their heads and necks backwards toward the perceived threat, screaming, threatening to spit, and eventually may spit and kick. Due to the soft pads on their feet, the kicks are not as dangerous as those of hooved animals.

A native of South America, the alpaca is a domesticated member of the Camelid family which includes the llama, camel, dromedary, guanaco and vicuna. Australia has the largest population of alpacas outside of South America. Approximately 40,000 alpacas are registered in Australia.

A number of alpaca fleeces are displayed at this year's BBX Royal Hobart Alpaca Show. Alpacas are shorn once a year, usually in spring. Fleece weights range from 2-5kg and are valued according to their micron and silky feel.

Animal Nursery

FREE

Map Ref C2 – Animal Nursery

The Animal Nursery is by far the cutest part of the show and it's not every day we get a chance to get up close and personal with the many different animals on display. We have a variety of baby animals, and their mums, including sows and piglets, cows and calves, as well as ducklings, chickens, cavies (guinea pigs) and even sea-horses, reptiles and other aquarium dwellers!

Visit the Patting Pen a hands-on area in the Nursery where children can meet, stroke, cuddle, hold and talk to some of these friendly little animals.

There's even a hatching display, so come along and watch some of these little babies come into the world for the first time! Plus, you can have your picture taken with the Mercury newspaper at the photo stall inside the Nursery.

Look out for Reptile Rescue and an array of snakes and lizards in here as well.

WARNING: Touching and petting of animals is considered high risk for PREGNANT WOMEN; CHILDREN UNDER 5; and those who are IMMUNO DEFICIENT. Contact should be avoided and hands washed if contact occurs. All others should wash hands as a precaution.

Map Ref B4 – Heart 101.7 Showbag Pavilion & E2 – Main Gate Entertainment Stage

My promise to you with my BMX act is an audience that is smiling, laughing and having a whale of a time.

We all remember the times when we tried doing tricks on our BMX bikes. Sometimes successful, sometimes not so much. Hanging out with all our mates trying to out do each other. Showing off to the girls. We remember looking up at the people that were amazing and wanting to be just like them. Watching the VHS tapes. Staring at the posters tacked to our bedroom walls. Daydreaming in school and waiting for the rain to stop so we could go out and ride our bikes!

Then, to see our heroes in real life; wow!

Show Features 2015

With my BMX act, when I am on stage, I bring these memories straight back! The children love the BMX stunts. The Mums love the muscly hairy legs. The Dads love seeing a real bloke doing bloody good tricks. So great.

In my early teens I bought my first BMX freestyle bike. Within two years I was travelling around northern NSW performing in front of audiences. After a brief interlude with post secondary education (Bachelor of Computing Studies, Graduate Diploma in Education), I discovered the circus. I came back to my BMX and learnt more tricks and developed an outstanding act .

After attending the National Institute of Circus Arts (NICA), I was picked up by Circus Oz. I toured the world being paid to do something that I love. Skids and wheelies!! AWESOME! How can life get better than this? Scott Hone.

Cattle

FREE

Map Ref D2 – Dairy / Beef Cattle Pavilion

Cattle first came to Australia on the First Fleet in 1788. The cattle did poorly in the tough Australian conditions so different breeds from Europe, including Shorthorn and Hereford, were transported to Australia to improve quality. The majority of beef cattle in Australia are low in fat but high in iron which promotes strong and healthy young people.

Beef cattle handlers use a stick called a 'Show Cane'. This is used to help position the cattle's feet so they have the correct stance and then to tickle or scratch them to keep them still and quiet while they are being judged. They are never used to harm an animal.

Show Features 2015

A Junior Beef Cattle Judging competition will take place in the morning on Thursday. At 9am on Friday the Junior Beef Handling Competition will be held for all those interested.

2015 will see a resurgence in our beef cattle exhibits thanks to some hard work from a new and very enthusiastic committee. Expect to see some exhibitors that have not shown for many years, We look forward to the best beef cattle exhibit we have seen for years.

This year we will also feature a cattle ‘dress-up’ day on Saturday. They originally came from the Andes (Peru, Bolivia, and Ecuador) where they have been domesticated for around 5000 years. They were brought to Europe sometime in the 16th Century. Princess Diana had cavies as pets when she was young!

Goats

FREE

Map Ref C2 – Dairy Goats; D2 - Angora Goats (under Main Grandstand at rear)

Goats were among the earliest animals to be domesticated. Goat remains found in Asia tell us that this domestication happened between 6000 and 7000BC. Goat breeds can be classified into three different types – meat, dairy and fibre. Dairy breeds include Anglo-Nubian, British Alpine, Saanen and Toggenburg. Fibre breeds are Angora and Cashmere, while Boer is a meat breed.

Anglo-Nubian goats are considered the most popular. They originated in the United Kingdom as a result of cross breeding the British goat with the Egyptian or Indian descendants. Milk of these goats is ideal for cheese making because of its high butter fat content.

The Cashmere goat was artificially bred in Australia and exported to the United States of America in the 1980s. Their Cashmere fleece is very valuable.

Horses

FREE

Map Ref D3/4; E3/4 – Main Arena

Over 250 horses and ponies will compete at the BBX Royal Hobart Show – a showcase of the finest! There are many different breeds of horse that compete at the Show for the sought after Blue Ribbon. One of these breeds is the Arabian horse. Arabian horses are known for their beauty, stamina, and strength. These features have earned them the admiration and adoration of horse lovers everywhere. Arabians are the oldest purebred horses in the world, and no other horse has had such a great influence on so many other breeds. The Arabian horse is an ancient breed that originated in the Middle East as long ago as 2000 B.C.

The Arabian horse is graceful, trim and hardy. They move quickly and lightly on their feet, and they can run for long distances with great endurance.

The Arabian horse has one less rib than other horses, leaving them with 17 rather than the usual 18. They also only have 16 tail vertebrae while other horses have 18. The Arabian horse have elegant slender necks, large dark eyes, small "tea cup" muzzles, and elegant "dished" faces. When Arabians move, they look as though they are floating on air. Their gaits are very graceful and springy and they tend to carry their tails high with pride, making them a beautiful sight to watch. Arabians also have very strong bones and feet well suiting them to their role as endurance horses. Arabians are highly intelligent, spirited, yet gentle.

Sheep

FREE

Map Ref C2 – Sheep / Alpacas

Sheep are an extremely valuable part of Australia’s agricultural industry, and the economy. They provide us with food and clothing.

The BBX Royal Hobart Show presents many different breeds of sheep, most bred for a specific purpose (either wool or meat) and to benefit us as consumers. You can find out all about them on our education page at:-

<http://www.hobartshowground.com.au/show/>.

FEATURE BREED 2015: The White Suffolk breed was developed in Australia by crossing the Suffolk with a white breed such as the Poll Dorset. It is a fertile breed that can be mated at any time of the year. It is rapidly gaining popularity as a prime lamb terminal sire that can consistently produce lambs to finish over 20kg. There are no coloured fibre dockages with the White Suffolk as it produces a high quality, white, Downs type wool.

The sheep shown at the BBX Royal Hobart Show are the finest of their breed and are brought here to promote their industry and compete for Champion awards.

Sheep have horizontal slit-shaped pupils, and possess a wide peripheral field of vision with some ability to distinguish color. With approximately 270° to 320° of wide-angle vision, sheep can see behind themselves without turning their heads (though this ability may be impaired slightly by any wool present around the eyes).
